Reasons for Allowance

1. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance: None of the art searched or the references cited disclose or teach alone or in combination the computer implemented method for classifying demand data which includes classifying the demand data into prioritized demand data according to the order data and the supply data in combination and in the same relationship with the other elements of claims 1 and 10, where the methodology is depicted in figures 1 and 1 and described on pages 9 and 10 of the specification.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."

Relevant Prior Art

2. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

Huang (5953707) discloses a decision support system for a supply chain with the objective of developing a product centric forecast based on historic demand data, where the system allows the user to modify the sales requirement, increase available resources and prioritize the sales requirement by restricting the attention to a reduced set of priority sales requirements.

Art Unit: 2125

Rush (6119102) discloses a master production scheduling system where all item demand and supply data sets are processed sequentially using a filtered index that accesses only active records within a specified time period.
